

Nihon Kohden Achieves Great Place to Work® Status for Fourth Consecutive Year

Employee Satisfaction Contributes to Nihon Kohden's Success as Fastest-Growing Company in Patient Monitoring Segment

IRVINE, Calif. – August 1, 2019 — Nihon Kohden, a U.S. market leader in precision medical products and services, today announced that it has been named a great workplace for the fourth year in a row by the Great Place to Work® Institute, the global authority on high-trust, high-performance workplace cultures. The recertification comes as the company continues to experience industry-leading growth in patient monitoring while maintaining its position as a trailblazer in neurology.

"We believe that being named a Great Place to Work is one of the highest honors we could receive," said Yasuhiro Yoshitake, president and CEO of Nihon Kohden America. "Because this is based on feedback from employee surveys that are conducted independently by the Great Place to Work Institute, this is an accurate representation of how employees feel about the company and the company's dedication to its employees. As always, Nihon Kohden is committed to continually improving its culture and ensuring our employees feel valued and rewarded."

Nihon Kohden's recertification was based on anonymous feedback from current employees on the employee experience, atmosphere, rewards, pride, communication and leadership. The company's highest marks were for the sense of pride employees feel in their work, the amount of responsibility and autonomy afforded them to accomplish their jobs, and inclusion. A summary of the company's ratings can be found here.

"In our fourth year of evaluating Nihon Kohden, we have continued to see the organization excel in key areas, including the amount of respect and fairness offered employees, as well as the pride people feel working there and the credibility leadership has in the organization," said Sarah Lewis-Kulin, vice president of Best Workplace List Research at Great Place to Work.
